GOAL:

London-based engineering practice CampbellReith had experienced a number of IT security breaches and turned to Millgate for advice. Their existing antivirus product was due to expire, so the timing was right to find a better, and improved solution.

ESSENTIALS:

Essentials included immediate requirements for endpoint and server protection, due to the impending expiry of the existing product, as well as discussions around mobile security for the future.

REQUIREMENTS:

Keith required a trial run to test the results with Sophos, to make sure the solution was compatible with his business. He was very happy with the results, and chose to continue.

CHALLENGE:

A conference call with Sophos was set up, so all three parties could discuss the challenges the company was facing and potential solutions available.

SOLUTION:

Millgate combined 4 Sophos products for a complete solution: Sophos Central, Intercept X Advanced, Intercept X Advanced for Service and Phish Threat.

THE RESULTS:

The united teamwork, customer service, and product expertise between Millgate and Sophos meant CampbellReith implemented a new security solution that suited them perfectly. With a quick turnaround, servers and endpoints were always safe and secure.
